A favorite classroom prep tool of successful students that is often recommended by professors, the Examples & Explanations (E&E) series provides an alternative perspective to help you understand your casebook and in-class lectures. Each E&E offers hypothetical questions complemented by detailed explanations that allow you to test your knowledge of the topics in your courses and compare your own analysis. Here's why you need an E&E to help you study throughout the semester: Clear explanations of each class topic, in a conversational, funny style. Features hypotheticals similar to those presented in class, with corresponding analysis so you can use them during the semester to test your understanding, and again at exam time to help you review. It offers coverage that works with ALL the major casebooks, and suits any class on a given topic. The Examples & Explanations series has been ranked the most popular study aid among law students because it is equally as helpful from the first day of class through the final exam.

Have you ever wondered if Piranhas really live in the ocean? There are many myths about them, but there are also many facts that you and your kids should know about this deadly fish. The fact that these deadly creatures can kill a human in a matter of seconds is one of the most intriguing facts about these predatory fish. Read on for some fun facts about these incredible creatures! Let's begin with some fun facts about Piranhas! First of all, piranhas are omnivores, meaning that they eat plants and animals. They are very fast, and their powerful bite can cause up to 72 pounds of force. They have sharp teeth that are constantly growing, and they need to replace them constantly. They grow four sets of teeth in their lifetime. This means that they will need to replace their teeth every 100 days. As they can't survive without their teeth, they usually eat plant matter, but they will occasionally take a larger animal for a snack. In addition to eating plants, piranhas will also eat animals. Although they are mostly vegetarian, some species are considered to be omnivores. This means that they won't eat humans. Even though they may look dangerous, piranhas are very rare. A few of them live in aquariums and can be spotted in the wild. If you're looking for some facts about piranhas, take a look at the video below.

The world is full of amazing animals, but some "facts" about them often seem too strange to be true. Do goldfish really have short memories? Is cow flatulence really ruining the ozone layer? This book takes a magnifying glass to some of the wildest things people say about animals to find the truth behind the exaggerations, misunderstandings, or even lies we accidentally spread as fact. Fact boxes throughout the book help readers separate the facts from fiction, and entertaining cartoons and illustrations add to the animal fun.

Davy's Trips is a brilliant collection of children's short stories, based on the adventures of a little boy from Scotland, who travels around the world on his magical flying trike. Creative illustrations are by Beano and Dandy artist D.S. Sutherland. Parents will find Davy's Trips suitable for 7-10 year olds, who are learning to read by themselves. The stories are ideal as bedtime stories for 4-6 year olds, sending them off to sleep happy and contented, with magical images in their minds. On each trip, Davy learns some useful geography and history facts about the destination he is travelling to. Kids will enjoy the adventures, whilst learning something at the same time! During the stories, a question is asked, What Will Davy Do Next? Children may then use their imagination to predict what is going to happen. The answers they come up with may be clever, funny, or just plain stupid, but it will really get them interactively involved in the adventure!

Tarantula vs. Piranha Gareth Stevens Publishing LLLP

Are piranhas dangerous? Well, piranhas are much less dangerous to humans than electric eels or sharks. Aquarium hobbyists that enjoy frightening fish even keep piranhas as pets. But what if you encounter them in the wild? Can a piranha eat a human if provoked? For the most part, piranhas are not dangerous to humans. They are very well equipped to be a threat to us. Yet they almost never attack people. Jeremy Wade of River Monsters performed an amazing stunt a few years ago. He took a swimming pool full of piranhas and added a bit of blood to the water. Enticing them with the smell. Next, he feeds the piranhas with a bit of meat on a string. Proving that they are plenty hungry and able to tear chunks out of flesh. And then he enters the pool in shorts. What do the piranhas do to him? As it turns out: nothing at all. The school of piranhas remains at the other end of the pool most of the time. They do move close as Jeremy stays still. But not once do they try to bite or attack as a school. River Monsters viewers and internet commenters took this as proof that piranhas are harmless. Simply a fish with big teeth that pop culture has made into a monster. Yet that's not the entire truth of the matter...
